This San Thomite is 100: Leela is known for her food and attractive embroidery

By Fabiola Jacob

Grace Leela Joshua Moses – ‘Mumma’ to close friends and family – recently celebrated her 100th birthday. A resident of Rosary Church Street in San Thome for many decades now, she is a well-known figure in the San Thome Christian community.

Leela Joshua Moses was born on 24 December, 1920 the daughter of late Balasingh Mal and Annakili of Sawyerpuram, down south– the second in a family of six children. Family stories about her mischief as a child growing up are many – apparently her parents had to tie her up to the “ural” (grinding stone) because she was hyperactive!

She completed her SSLC in Capron Hall School in Madurai, and underwent training in Carnatic music while she was young and has been part of the church choir too.

At the age of 18, she married Samuel Joshua Moses who later retired as Deputy Director of Agriculture in Tamil Nadu Agriculture Department. They started their married life in Sattur, Madurai district. He was the absolute love of her life and encouraged her to play the mandolin, learn bridge and enjoy tennis games along with Europeans of her time.

She is an ace in indoor games like Scrabble, cards and carrom. While living in Manjolai she developed a fascination for embroidery and learnt to cross stitch and embroider bullion roses.

Leela and Joshua Moses were a very loving couple and her children cannot seem to recollect a single quarrel. Her grandchildren often get to hear stories from her about their epic love! She fondly cherishes his memories every day even though her husband passed away in 1975.

Leela Joshua Moses is a woman of great faith, and an active member of the CSI St. Thomas English Church congregation.

Her culinary skills are legendary, and in every fund-raiser sale for Church and she produced them until her eyesight started failing recently.

Leela is an absolute fun-loving person and her grandchildren fondly recall holidays and card games when they would lose to her. An extraordinary chef, her dishes were longed for by family and friends.

She says her family has been her greatest strength and she attributes her long and happy life to the love she receives from her family.

Her family recalls her spirit of forgiveness, which knows no bounds. She never remembers any wrongs, while she always had a note of appreciation for the talent of her loved ones. She never misses her daily morning devotion with Bible reading and singing even today.

With Christmas and her birthday coinciding, the family made time to be together, baking rich plum cakes with her year on year. But the 2020 celebration was different.

“Unfortunately, due to the pandemic we had to limit the gathering to only her children and their families” says her grand-daughter Priya Pearlina.

“We had cousins in Hyderabad and Delhi fly in while others from abroad joined virtually on MS Teams – projected for her over TV. We decorated the home with pictures from across the years as she treasures the family memories and had a cake custom made for her with the theme “Living on Love”. We celebrated with a thanksgiving prayer followed by a special breakfast, photo session and lunch. Mumma blessed us all.”

Leela Joshua Moses is blessed with 5 children, 13 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

Jottings

VINCENT D'SOUZA

Our photographer, Madhan Kumar's photographs get a good deal of attention; he captures slices of life in the Mylapore neighbourhood.

This week, as he did his beat of the area after the persistent rains, he shot a visual of water inside the Chitrakulam, clear and still with the clean, blue sky and fluffy clouds and the washed buildings on the fringe of the tank reflected in the water.

Mylapore's temple tanks always hold the attention of the community. Most people want to see water in these tanks, all the year round. This is understandable.

And when the tanks are barren, bone-dry and show up a lot of scrubby vegetation, many Mylaporeans wonder how this can come to be.

And they are aghast when they find that the water that collected here after a good spell of rain is gone in less than 36 hours.

People then come up with all kinds of suggestions - to retain the water. Some ideas are impractical, some colorful and some have been bandied over time.

But most people have not understood the real issue and hope for quick-fix solutions.

Recently, the state okayed the paving of the bed of one Mylapore temple with clayey soil in order to retain rainwater. Now, is this a great idea? Or do we want to execute something that merely retains water in a temple tank?

Over the years, a whole variety of for-the-day jobs have been executed to retain water in temple tanks. They have been piece-meal and have not addressed the bigger issue - that of rainwater harvesting to recharge the ground and the water it holds.

The problem is that state agencies have their own plans and execute them. Some residents have their own ideas but find there is no platform to exchange them.

We still have not made space for a frank, intelligent discussion on neighbourhood issues and the intent to take the community into confidence, get it involved deeply and work on long-term plans.

So we continue with for-the-day actions. Clay laid on one temple tank bed. Vegetation cleared in another tank. Extra pipelines led into a third tank. Tankers emptying water into a fourth tank for teppam fest.

This store in Mylapore sells variety of handicrafts and home decorations

By Dheepthi O. J.

From quirky wall hangings to pen stands made of agricultural waste, this store at Nattu Subbarayan Street, Mylapore has a variety of unique handicrafts and home decorations for sale.

Called Gayu kraits and gifts, the store also houses a wide range of terracotta and fabric jewellery.

Gayathri Janakiram, a resident of this street started the shop a year ago. She now runs it at the renovated portion of her traditionally-built house.

Says Gayathri, "Although I have completed MBA in International Business, I have been interested in crafts since I was a child. Hence, I started my own shop."

She says that initially, she had only her handicrafts and dot paintings for sale. "Later on, I added fridge magnets, fancy jewellery and handpainted pouches made by my friends too."

The store also stocks a range of vessels (ceramic, wood, glass, steel), Kashmiri bags, wooden decorations and soap bouquets.

Says Gayathri. "I always make sure that all my crafts are unique. For instance, dream catchers (a kind of wall hanging) usually would be made with feathers of a single colour, but I make it with multi-coloured feathers so it looks more pleasant.

Similarly, we sell notebooks that sport images of famous cartoon characters like minions."

And this idea of Gayathri seems to have worked well. "Many people are buying our products now. Our dream catchers and notebooks are especially popular."

People can also buy her handicrafts, jewellery for use as gifts to friends and loved ones.

At 49/80, Nattu Subbarayan Street, Mylapore. Ph: 9962265568.

Thai poosam at Sri Kapali Temple from Jan.28

The annual Thai poosam festival at Sri Kapali Temple in Mylapore will start on January 28 and end on 30.

The grand teppam festival draws a big crowd to the steps of the temple's tank.

As of now, there is only a small sheet of water in the tank; though large amounts of rainwater flow into the tank during the monsoon late last year, much of it was drawn into the ground where the level drops when the large number of borewells in this area keep tapping the ground water day in and day out.

A team of Sri Kapaleeswarar Temple staff cleared a lot of vegetation that has flourished in the stagnant water of the tank even as it rained last Tuesday.

There was a strong flow of water channeled from the streets around the tank into the recently-laid bigger pipes at the south west end of the tank.

Overnight rain has increased the water level inside the tank - this will be good news as the temple prepares for the annual Thai Poesam teppam fest later this January ( 28 – 30).

There has been a huge rush in pilgrims visiting the Sri Ayyappa Temple in MRC Nagar, in R. A. Puram, more so on weekends. This rush is also due to the fact that many pilgrims are skipping their pilgrimage to Sabarimala.

However, man-management is almost nil at this temple and outside it and pandemic regulations scarcely observed.

Now, Mylapore zone has three mini clinics

Two new mini-clinics have recently opened in Mylapore. These, after the first was opened on Kutchery Road by the chief minister himself.

While one is at Mandaveli Street, inside the premises of Chennai Corporation's night shelter, the other one is at Kamarajar Salai, R.A.Puram, near the E- Seva centre here.

The clinics are meant for catering to the basic medical needs of underprivileged families in the areas that fall under Ward 124 and Ward 173 respectively. Each one is managed by a team of the Corporation's doctor, nurse and assistant.

People may walk-in at these clinics to get themselves treated for cold, cough, or headache. Basic allopathic medicines like paracetamol, BP and sugar tablets are provided here. The mini-clinic at Mandaveli Street has an additional facility to provide Homoeopathy treatment.

Earlier, a mini-clinic was opened at Kutchery Road, Mylapore at the ground floor of Chennai Corporation's Ward 125 office unit. The clinics will be open from 8 am to 12 pm and from 4 pm to 8 pm on all days except Saturdays.

Congressman warms up in Mylapore with an eye on Assembly poll

Even as political parties roll their campaign wagons across the state to prepare for the elections to the state Assembly in April-May this year, one man is making an early start in the Mylapore constituency.

He is the Congress party's V. Narayanan alias 'America' Narayanan.

Though based in the Adyar zone, Narayanan has his eye on Mylapore because his hunch is that the DMK, with whom the Congress is an ally will let the Congress be allowed to contest for the seat in the 2021 election.

Reason why Narayanan is driving his own little bandwagon around in Mylapore. Having been associated with city auto unions for some time, he is tapping into his connect with some autorickshaw groups to reach out to the community – guiding residents to register as voters and giving a ear to their civic woes.

Mylapore's sitting MLA, R. Nataraj of the AIADMK has been active on all fronts, keeping his days busy attending to social and state-backed events and addressing people at his office in Alwarpet. Through his tenure as MLA, Nataraj has toted plus points for being available to people and for his interactions and on-ground involvement.

R. K. Nagar community starts to improve civic conditions, inspired by a neighbour

Residents of Ramakrishna Nagar in R. A. Puram are realising that the quality of life improves when they join hands to segregate waste, nurture greenery, discipline parking on the streets and work with state agencies closely.

They seem inspired by the model set by the community in Thiruveedhi Amman Koil Street which works under the TAKSRA umbrella.

Thiruveedhi Amman Koil Street has earned plaudits for its civic sense – the street now looks green, its community recycles its waste and doesn't dump it all over, vehicles parking is regulated and action is prompted against outsiders who drink here after dusk or park their vans here.

In recent times, the residents of 1st Cross and 2nd Cross Streets in R K Nagar have rolled out the model that TAKSRA offers them.

Plants have been planted alongside the boundary walls of houses and residents are learning how best to treat plastic, vegetable and metal waste.

Says K. L. Balasubramaniam of TAKSRA, "There are some 500 families in the ten streets of R. K. Nagar. Many are realising the worth of maintaining their streets and improving the quality of life. Our model is encouraging them."

The process has taken time but it is rubbing off on the neighbourhood. More because the fruits of the effort are showing – the smelly dirty waste dumps are disappearing, parking is allowed only for residents and not for outsiders and the greenery is giving the streets a cool look.

Says Bala, "I tell people that their property value goes up when others find how lovely the area is to live in. Motivating people takes time."

He also says civic agencies must enforce rules and not stop at just rolling out plans and publicising them.

At least, the senior officers at Urbaser which is the private waste clearing agency working in Mylapore zone among other areas in the city have dropped by to study the methods of waste disposal that TAKSRA community has been following, successfully.

Temples are now open to people till 9 p.m.

By S. Prabhu

After a gap of over nine months, devotees at Sri Kapaleeswarar Temple were able to have darshan of the artha jaama abhisekam at 9pm on January 1.

As per the new relaxations announced by the TN Government yesterday, temples will be open from today as per normal timings that were in vogue before the lockdown restrictions came into effect in March last year.

With this relaxation, the devotees will be able to witness the abhisekam for lord Kapaleeswarar at 9pm every evening from today January 1. Confirming this to Mylapore Times, temple executive and Jt. Commissioner Kaveri said that the devotees will be able to stay inside the temple till about 9 p.m.

The temple's final pooja for the day, the Artha Jaama Pooja, starts at 9pm with a milk abhisekam for lord Kapaleeswarar and the pooja process in Karpagambal sannidhi and Singaravelar sannidhi that includes recital by the Othuvargoes on till about 9.30pm.

It may be recalled that once some of the lockdown restrictions were lifted in temples in September last year, the devotees were allowed inside the temple to have darshan but had to leave the temple complex by 8pm.

These rules apply to all temples.
