The current lockdown, in force at night, creates a ghost-town effect in many areas in Mylapore. Empty streets, streetlight dripping between avenue trees and everybody indoors.

On the Marina, police are at their posts after 9 p.m. to ensure drivers respect the regulations. And since the beach side is off-limits 24x7, walkers are crowding the pavement mornings and evenings, on their daily walks.

In Sannidhi Street zone, since the gates of Sri Kapali Temple close at 9 p.m. daily temple-visitors stop outside, reflect and move on. The bustling Mada Streets are totally quiet, save for movement of workers cleaning up the restaurants on South Mada Street,

Big Fish

On and off, fisherfolk net a bonanza. Fisherman Madhan who lives in one of the kuppams off Marina Loop Road got one this week. As did two others.

They netted a thirukkai, a large form of sting ray. Madhan's catch weighed about 68 kilos and was some 3 feet long. He called up his contacts in the wholesale fish business, negotiated the sale price, loaded the fish in an auto and sent it off.

"We had to sweat it to lift the meen and put it in the auto. It was so heavy," Madhan said later.

The past few weeks, fishermen have been catching kalavai most nights and this variety doesn't command much at fish auctions and is sold at local markets.

It does make for a good fish curry, says a hawker off Nochikuppam.

REDESIGNED STREET GETS SPLASH OF COLOURFUL ART

By Our Staff Reporter

Kalvi Varu Street, which runs along the Buckingham Canal behind Vidya Mandir school is getting a splash of colour.

The wall that has been constructed on the banks of the Canal as part of the street redesign and construction, long delayed, was painted by a group of volunteers motivated by the NGO, Karam Korpom led by founder Sivakumar.

The wall will sport images that are local - life as it used to be on the Canal, local personalities and Nature. One teen was seen shooting a selfie with a colourfully-painted butterfly as backdrop here.

This art wall forms part of the widened pavement and sports a children's play area and a gym for adults. A small park is due to come up at the Kutchery Road junction.

Mylapore MLA R. Nataraj, who has backed this project dropped by on April 14 to take a look at progress here. Nataraj has said that he would like to see this design and look implemented all along the Canal till the Adyar river point. But little has been done to clean the polluted water of the Canal and mosquitoes thrive.

Another major issue that a new ML:A will have to address is to clear all encroaching huts on the east side of the Canal and re-settle the residents locally if some order has to be really be seen in this area. People also dump waste into the Canal over the bridge.

For the project to retain its life, residents here will have to take charge. Else, the workshops, vans on hire, cattle and parotta hawkers will. Already, past 7 p.m., both sides of the wide street is a parking lot.

In memory of Vivekh

Community activist and Mandaveli resident C. R. Balaji did what many have done on learning about the passing away of actor Vivekh, who was also a high profile 'green' campaigner and promoted planting of saplings. Balaji says he planted a sapling in a thin strip of soil in the apartment premises where he resides. Balaji said it was one type of jasmine that was planted.

VINCENT'S JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

It was curled under a rash of bushes and bougainvillea. This mallipoo.

Just off the motor room in our campus. My driver spotted it last weekend and on my morning walk, I drew deep of its fragrance.

We had not planted it. Must have been my neighbour who had recently shifted temporarily to the other nagar.

Mallipoo has its own magic, doesn't it. And as I revelled in this presence I heard the news of the passing away of Vivekh, actor and activist.

Even as I shared the pictures of the mallipoo with a friend who teaches in a college and shares my interest in the greens, the idea occurred to me - I told her - why don't you have a symbolic event on campus that celebrates Vivekh's passion? Plant saplings.

Later that day, we located some fruit-bearing saplings and had them carted to the campus in North Chennai.

Hopefully, this will be a meaningful tribute to a man who promoted tree planting and did it himself.

There are so many ways to pay tribute to those who pass away. But we must find real ways to do so.

Last week, we lost a senior journalist who had made a big name for himself as a Crossword setter. C. G. Rishikesh of Gopalapuram.

Rishi, as we called him worked long years at the Desk at The Indian Express and later, for The Hindu's Frontline magazine. Rishi was passionate about words and phrases and about setting Crosswords, which he did for a long time for The Hindu. He had a fan following, a facet I got to know in recent times.

No wonder he would slip some of these strange-sounding words in our conversations at a bar even as he nursed his mug of chill beer over an hour and then cackle away, echoing it around us, obviously enjoying the mirth of our ignorance.

I had a little souvenir in mind for Rishi. A caricature of himself, framed. The kind I have started gifting senior journalists in recognition of their record. Now, I will have to hand this over to the Rishi family.

Tributes have a key place in the life of a person. That is why we at the Mylapore Times have always made space to carry Tributes, some written by our team, some by well-wishers or by the family. Traders, music teachers, corporate honchos, priests, sportspeople, philanthropists, even the long-standing neighbourhood shop owner gets a Tribute in our columns.

All of us must be celebrated. And the record documented.

So when a person passes away in your family or in the colony or in your local campus in the Mylapore zone you know what you can do. Write a tribute and mail it to us. And if you are a fan of Vivekh's humour, go and plant a sapling.

Fix this 'dead' traffic signal

A traffic signal in Luz Junction requires some fixing as the signal at the back end is defunct, making it difficult for vehicles coming from Kutchery Road to notice the signal.

I would request Mylapore Traffic Police to rectify the issue as this has been ignored for quite some time.

Woes of senior at GCC hospital

I called on at GCC hospital in CPR Road, Alwarpet to have my second dose of Covaxin which was due on 20th April.

But I was sent back at the entrance as I did not have a token with me. Later on, I learnt that coupons are issued from 7am daily to enter the hospital. I am a senior citizen and to stand in the queue from 7am in the summer heat to get a coupon appears to be ridiculous.

The GCC vaccine centres should desist from imposing stringent measures on senior citizens at this period of acute crisis. I was all praise for this GCC hospital for the nice arrangements they made when I called on them for my first vaccine jab. But now it is quite different.

There is nobody to hear you out and guide you in the correct direction. One welcoming feature is that a sudden awareness has developed among the public to get themselves vaccinated.

- C. Varadarajan, Alwarpet

Vaccine process: provide for seniors

I find many senior citizens waiting for their turn to take the jab. It will be better if separate timings/slots are allotted to senior citizens or they be given preference so that their waiting time is reduced.

- R. Neelakantan

On milling roads: engineer's views

I read the column by C. R. Balaji in Mylapore Times on milling roads / streets. Thanks to him for his service. I am a civil engineer and have done several infrastructure works as a consultant and contractor.

The issue of milling of roads is a huge one. Inadequate depth of milling, which is mostly the case, leads to other problems like raising the level of roads, flooding, sewerage overflow, etc. One way of dealing with this is to give the contract for milling to a different agency who has this expensive equipment. The aggregates milled can be recycled also.

The entire road width is laid with bituminous macadam with no earth for even 8" width at the sides to absorb rain water. This is not proper.

- Jayachandran

Plaint against BSNL

Rude answers by BSNL staff, ineffective and slow work by its workers is causing major disturbances in our work at CIT Colony. No calls can be made from our landline but monthly charges have to be paid!

- R. Sharavathi

Multiple services offered by Post Offices

It is heartening to know about the many different services offered by Post Offices which many of us were not aware of till date. The information provided by Mylapore Times is very useful and handy.

MY STORY

School uniforms in cupboard, classmates on Hangout

By SARAVANAN NATARAJAN

The academic year 2020-21 has ended; a year truly remarkable for it brought to fore the resilience, adaptability and ingenuity of our children, their teachers and us parents.

Thanks to COVID, our children did not go to school - the school came home instead. Arvind was going from Class 5 to 6, a big transition from Primary to Middle School. But the way the online classes were planned and held by Hari Shree Vidyalayam brushed aside our scepticism and apprehensions.

The uniforms remained in the cupboard; there was no early morning bustle of getting ready and commuting to school. However, with Google meetings and Google Classrooms, the children learned with excitement and enthusiasm.

They soon fell into the routine, attended the sessions that began with prayers, learned to unmute and mute as required, 'raise hands' to get their doubts clarified, learned to download Google Docs, complete assignments, scan them and submit them as PDFs, handled their assessments with diligence and..... yes, honesty.

I still recall a Math test - I was helping Arvind revise for the test and came out of the room when the session commenced. I was speechless when he opened his door and came running to me to handover the calculator which I had been using to check his calculations during the revision. He did not even want it to be on his table while he was writing the test, though he could not be seen!

And yes, the projects were interesting and demanding, especially during the initial lockdown. A model of the human digestive system to be made from articles available at home was the most challenging.

The school did not compromise even on the extra-curricular areas - Creative Expressions, Yoga, Zumba and P.E. were all fitted into the timetable.

No doubt, the children missed their friends, but made up by creating hangouts, chatting (sometimes even when the classes were on!) and having Google Meets. They also helped each other with their lessons. We attended the virtual PTMs at the end of each term. This adversity surely brought out the best in the students and teachers, and yes, the parents!

UPDATES ON THE VIRUS SCENE

Poor response to 'fever' camps

'Fever' camps are now being held across the neighbourhood. Places where you can step into these makeshift tents and get tested for the virus.

Last week, we spotted one on V. C. Gardens 2nd Street, Mandaveli ; this was open for three hours from 10 a.m.

The doctor and nurse were from Mandaveli-based Amma mini Clinic. This mini clinic, on a daily basis conducts these fever camps in street junctions across this part of the area.

The nurse said they conduct it twice or even thrice in streets where the population is high or if there are any COVID positive patients.

Dr. Shabana here said that there isn't much response to these fever camps and only around 30 people had come by for a check that day. This clinic also gives 20 to 30 COVID vaccine shots per day between 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. but not daily.

Chaos, irritation and quiet at busy vaccine centre

After the chaos, there was quiet and order.

This was the scene at the much-frequented GCC-run vaccine centre on C. P. Ramaswamy Road on Thursday, April 22.

The gates were open just after 7 a.m. and people strolled in, picked up their tokens and found chairs lined up but apart so they could sit in the shade in the open.

Policemen kept an eye on the situation from afar. Some 200 doses of both brands of the vaccine were received on time and the jab process began by about 9.30 am. The process was smooth.

This situation here was such a contrast to the previous morning.

People spilled on to the road as their frustration ran high when the vaccine supply got delayed - it reached at 10.30 a.m. an hour late. Local police had to rush here to restore order.

The chaos was caused by people who came after 8 a.m. and found they wouldn't get tokens. Nobody could explain how this 'token' system worked. Then, there was no firm word on the dosage of the two vaccines that would be supplied here - so the people keen to get the second jab were on tenterhooks.

But once order was restored, the process went clock-work much to the credit of the medical staff who kept their cool.

Getting the jab: first person account

- By Helen C. Xavier

Today (April 21) I went reluctantly for my jab. I went to the GCC clinic on Appu Street based on the advice of a neighbour.

I went at 8 am and some 50 people stood waiting for the gates to open. They had got their tokens. I got mine as well. Gates opened by 8.45 am and only the first 50 were allowed, the staff saying there was limited vaccine.

I returned after 20 mins and found a bigger crowd and the token system was not followed. I was told that only Covishield vaccine would arrive at 10.30 a.m.

Fearing missing my jab, I stayed back. People started gathering. There were those who asked for their second jab of Covaxin, which the staff initially said was unavailable.

The crowd was getting bigger, eating away all distancing measures, people were told that Covaxin was likely to arrive and so only those awaiting for jab 2 would be given it. So some who came later waited. A woman walked in with the vaccine box and people crowded around her - she was extremely patient - giving info, writing people's details etc. When Covishield arrived at 11.20 am, other people surged to be vaccinated. The queue of people awaiting the Covaxin jab got disturbed and there was chaos.

Covaxin people were separated into their lines and Covishield people were called by name to get their jabs in separate places. Order was tossed up.

I did not receive a card that all people get after the jab. So I scribbled the details and came back home.

Charity shelf set up in San Thome. You can drop off dry food, clothes

Charity shelves or food fridges have popped up here and there across the city - nooks where donors drop off food or clothes and footwear which can be picked up by people in need.

One such shelf has come up in San Thome; just off the pavement at the Kutchery Road - San Thome High Road junction, opposite the Cathedral.

This one has been set up by a NGO called Anbin Pathai based in Doomingkuppam. There is a cooler that stores food and a shelf to stock footwear and clothes. The wall space around this facility sports some illustrations and visuals.

"Donors can drop off food and clothes on their own anytime," says Clement of the NGO. "For now, only dry food like bread and rotis may be kept since we are yet to get power supply to run the cooler."

He says Mylapore police officers have encouraged the idea and suggested that a similar one be set up near Sri Kapali Temple, Mylapore to support the poor.

Sanjay's first music video

This Tamizh New Year's day, Carnatic music vocalist, Sanjay Subrahmanyam collaborated with a creative team which works from Adyar to present the first music video.

Titled 'Tamizhan', the well-known vocalist, dressed in his trademark white and white sings the song to minimal accompanying music, laying the stress on the words, the lyrics. The music is his. The creative was worked out by Bhargavi, photographer, designer and now, producer of a popular YouTube channel for kolams, called Kolam Podu. For this video, she is the auteur and with Koteeswar, who handles the typography creates a neat, simple, striking video produced by Edge Productions.

Said Bhargavi, "The idea was mine but Sanjay was gracious to lead us. The feedback has been good this far."

Sanjay's Tamizh songs-themed concerts have come to draw a big attendance, and last year-end due to the pandemic situation a themed concert held annually was webcast.
